De Gruyter Handbook of Sociology of Innovation and Entrepreneurship Olav Sorenson, Patricia H. Thornton, 2025-04-21 The number of organization theorists and sociologists studying innovation and entrepreneurship has grown rapidly over the past two decades yet it has been roughly 15 years since any volume has attempted a comprehensive review of the state of the literature In addition to having grown rapidly the sociological literatures on entrepreneurship and innovation have evolved relatively independently However there are intellectual synergies to be gained in connecting these two literatures A large share of innovation happens in the context of startups and a large share of startups pursue innovation through the commercialization of products and services Featuring engaging contributions from leading scholars in the field the De Gruyter Handbook of Sociology of Innovation and Entrepreneurship is a must have and up to date summary of the literatures on the sociology of entrepreneurship and innovation It is a comprehensive reference work highlighting emerging areas and cutting edge research while also providing a vibrant agenda that empowers scholars and students to generate new ideas and knowledge

Catalysing young agri-entrepreneurs' investments and ensuring their sustainability Eiselen, B., Fiedler, Y., 2021-03-30 The achievement of the first two Sustainable Development Goals SDGs end poverty and hunger by 2030 requires substantial investments To fully contribute to sustainable development both public and private investments should be perfectly aligned with the SDGs In this context empowering youth to invest in their own farms and businesses along agricultural value chains should be a key component of sustainable development centered investment promotion and mobilization strategy for three reasons the improvement of food security the promotion of the added value of food products and the improvement of employment and economic well being This strategic planning tool can help propel investments by young agri entrepreneurs at national or regional levels and help ensure their sustainability It analyses the current environment and overall conditions young investors face while offering practical solutions to overcome the main challenges identified The strategic planning tool also helps ensure that decision makers take ownership of the results through a participatory and inclusive process The strategic planning process consists of four steps 1 Identify which actions to prioritize promising agri food chains target areas and groups of young people with the potential to become successful agri entrepreneurs and who need help the most 2 Analyse the current context institutional policy legal and incentive frameworks as well as existing services which help young agri entrepreneurs make sustainable investments in the agricultural sector and food systems 3 Develop a common vision of the optimal situation for young agri entrepreneurs investing in agri food chains and 4 Develop practical solutions to enhance sustainable and responsible investments by young agri entrepreneurs
