Adaptation and Human Behavior Napoleon Chagnon, 2017-09-08 This volume presents state of the art empirical studies working in a paradigm that has become known as human behavioral ecology The emergence of this approach in anthropology was marked by publication by Aldine in 1979 of an earlier collection of studies edited by Chagnon and Irons entitled Evolutionary Biology and Human Social Behavior An Anthropological Perspective During the two decades that have passed since then this innovative approach has matured and expanded into new areas that are explored here The book opens with an introductory chapter by Chagnon and Irons tracing the origins of human behavioral ecology and its subsequent development Subsequent chapters written by both younger scholars and established researchers cover a wide range of societies and topics organized into six sections The first section includes two chapters that provide historical background on the development of human behavioral ecology and compare it to two complementary approaches in the study of evolution and human behavior evolutionary psychology and dual inheritance theory The second section includes five studies of mating efforts in a variety of societies from South America and Africa The third section covers parenting with five studies on societies from Africa Asia and North America The fourth section breaks somewhat with the tradition in human behavioral ecology by focusing on one particularly problematic issue the demographic transition using data from Europe North America and Asia The fifth section includes studies of cooperation and helping behaviors using data from societies in Micronesia and South America The sixth and final section consists of a single chapter that places the volume in a broader critical and comparative context The contributions to this volume demonstrate with a high degree of theoretical and methodological sophistication the maturity and freshness of this new paradigm in the study of human behavior The volume will be of interest to anthropologists and other professions working on the study of cross cultural human behavior The Handbook of Evolutionary Psychology, Volume 1 David M. Buss, 2015-11-02 The indispensable reference tool for the groundbreaking science of evolutionary psychology Why is the mind designed the way it is How does input from the environment interact with the mind to produce behavior These are the big unanswered questions that the field of evolutionary psychology seeks to explore The Handbook of

Evolutionary Psychology is the seminal work in this vibrant quickly developing new discipline In this thorough revision and expansion luminaries in the field provide an in depth exploration of the foundations of evolutionary psychology and explain the new empirical discoveries and theoretical developments that continue at a breathtaking pace Evolutionary psychologists posit that the mind has a specialized and complex structure just as the body has a specialized and complex structure From this important theoretical concept arises the vast array of possibilities that are at the core of the field which seeks to examine such traits as perception language and memory from an evolutionary perspective This examination is intended to determine the human psychological traits that are the products of sexual and natural selection and as such to chart and understand human nature Join the discussion of the big questions addressed by the burgeoning field of evolutionary psychology Explore the foundations of evolutionary psychology from theory and methods to the thoughts of EP critics Discover the psychology of human survival mating parenting cooperation and conflict culture and more Identify how evolutionary psychology is interwoven with other academic subjects and traditional psychological disciplines The Handbook of Evolutionary Psychology is the definitive guide for every psychologist and student interested in keeping abreast of new ideas in this quickly developing field

Evolutionary Perspectives on Environmental Problems Dustin J. Penn, Iver Myrsetad, The twenty first century presents an increasing number of environmental problems including toxic pollution global warming destruction of tropical forests extinction of biological diversity and depletion of natural resources These environmental problems are generally due to human behavior namely over consumption of resources and overpopulation Designing effective policies to address these problems requires a deep understanding of human behavior as well as ecology This in turn requires considerations of human nature and the evolutionary design of the human mind Evolutionary research on human behavior has profound implications for the environmental sciences The aim of this collection is to bring together a variety of chapters that show how and why

Part 1 Human Nature and Resource Conservation addresses environmental problems from different evolutionary perspectives Part 2 The Ecological Noble Savage Hypothesis examines the notion that our environmental problems are due to Western culture and that our ancestors and people in indigenous societies lived in harmony with nature until the corrupting influences of Western culture Part 3 The Tragedy of the Commons explores the conservation of common pool or open access natural resources such as fisheries forests grazing lands freshwater and clean air Part 4 The Evolution of Discounting and Conspicuous Consumption looks at the problem of explaining why people are so ecologically short sighted and why people in developed countries consume so many resources Part 5 Overpopulation and Fertility Declines addresses the evolution of human reproductive decisions Part 6 Biophilia aims to explain why people cherish nature as well as destroy it The goal of this volume is to introduce environmental thinkers to evolutionary perspectives on human behavior and the new interdisciplinary sciences of evolutionary psychology and behavioral ecology This reader aims to help bridge the artificial division between the biological and social sciences and provide a synthesis between evolutionary sciences of human behavior and environmental sciences Dustin J Penn is director Konrad Lorenz Institute Austrian Academy of Sciences Vienna Iver Myrsetrud is biologist and researcher at the Department of Biology University of Oslo Norway

Evolutionary Ecology Leslie Real, 1994-11-30 The first book length exploration of behavioral mechanisms in evolutionary ecology this ambitious volume illuminates long standing questions about cause and effect relations between an animal's behavior and its environment By focusing on biological mechanisms the sum of an animal's cognitive neural developmental and hormonal processes leading researchers demonstrate how the integrated study of animal physiology cognitive processes and social interaction can yield an enriched understanding of behavior With studies of species ranging from insects to primates the contributors examine how various animals identify and use environmental resources and deal with ecological constraints as well as the roles of learning communication and cognitive aspects of social interaction in behavioral evolution Taken together the chapters demonstrate how the study of internal mechanistic foundations of behavior in relation to their ecological and evolutionary contexts and outcomes provides valuable insight into such behaviors as predation mating and dispersal Behavioral Mechanisms in Evolutionary Ecology shows how a mechanistic approach unites various levels of biological organization to provide a broader understanding of the biological bases of behavioral evolution Information

Evolutionary Psychology Neil Levy, 2017-03-02 Evolutionary approaches to the study of human beings have been able to explain the origin and maintenance of many of the features of our bodies Many thinkers believe that an evolutionary approach will be equally fruitful when it comes to explaining the features of our minds Since our behaviour is driven by our minds our cognitive dispositions and processes are likely to have been a target of selection and adaptation This volume collects recent prominent explorations of this theme as well as the voices of dissenters who argue that our minds are far more significantly the product of culture than of evolution Homo Biologicus Charles Elworthy, 1993 Revised and extended version of doctoral dissertation Ecology, 1960 Publishes essays and articles that report and interpret the results of original scientific research in basic and applied ecology Journal of the Anthropological Society of Oxford, 1994

Cochrane, 2009 The research presented here investigates the evolution of material cultural diversity in the Yasawa Islands in the northwestern corner of the Fijian archipelago This work builds upon several field seasons of basic research in the Yasawas as well as other large scale ceramic analyses in Fiji This study constructs answers using an explanatory framework explicitly designed to account for the evolution of cultural diversity in prehistory This explanatory framework combines the effects of cultural transmission selection and other sorting processes and innovation Using this explanatory framework this research attempts to answer the following three questions 1 What domains of ceramic similarity in the Yasawa Islands can be used to define culturally transmitting populations or lineages 2 What are the spatial and temporal distributions of transmission lineages defined along different avenues of transmission and 3 What are the possible explanations for the distribution of these lineages Chapter 2 examines some of the previous archaeological and other research in Fiji that has attempted to explain or document cultural biological and linguistic diversity Chapter 3 more completely develops the theoretical framework used to explain prehistoric ceramic similarities and difference in terms of transmission lineages An outline of the natural and cultural history of the Yasawa Islands is presented in Chapter 4 Classifications of ceramic variation and other analyses are presented in Chapter 5 In Chapter 6 cladistic and seriation analyses generate hypotheses for the transmission history of Yasawa Islands populations Chapter 7 reviews the results of this research in the context of other archaeological work in Fiji The approach to explaining cultural similarities and differences employed in this research indicates that prehistoric cultural diversity can be examined using cultural transmission selection and innovation to produce empirically testable hypotheses regarding the historical relatedness of populations The further development of this approach by scholars will do much to answer long standing questions
